Emergency Room or Urgent Care?

If you're faced with a sudden illness or injury, making an informed choice on where to seek medical care is crucial to your personal and financial well-being. Making the wrong choice can result in delayed medical attention and may cost hundreds, if not thousands, of dollars. More than 10 percent of all emergency room visits could have been better addressed in either an urgent care facility or a doctor's office.

If you're suddenly faced with symptoms of an illness or injury, how can you determine which facility is most appropriate for your condition?

EMERGENCY ROOM	URGENT CARE
The emergency room (ER) is equipped to handle life- threatening injuries and illnesses and other serious medical conditions. Patients are seen according to the seriousness of their conditions in relation to the other patients. You should go to the nearest ER if you experience any of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Compound fractures Deep knife or gunshot wounds Moderate to severe burns Poisoning or suspected poisoning Seizures or loss of consciousness Serious head, neck or back issues Severe abdominal pain Severe chest pain or difficulty breathing Signs of a heart attack or stroke Suicidal or homicidal feelings Uncontrollable bleeding 	Urgent care centers are not equipped to handle life-threatening injuries, illnesses or medical conditions. These centers are designed to address conditions where delaying treatment could cause serious problems or discomfort. Some examples of conditions that require a visit to an urgent care center include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Controlled bleeding or cuts that require stitches Diagnostic services (x-rays, lab tests) Ear infections High fever or the flu Minor broken bones (e.g., toes, fingers) Severe sore throat or cough Sprains or strains Skin rashes and infections Urinary tract infections Vomiting, diarrhea or dehydration

REMEMBER: Unless it is a true emergency – a serious or life-threatening condition that requires immediate treatment that is only available in a hospital – consider your options for appropriate, quality care that is efficient and economical.
