

The Very Hungry Chicken

A Creative Arts Project Featuring Glossy and June, two Visiting Chickens, Ms. Kristin Arunski and her fifth graders.

Made possible by a TeachArts Ohio grant from the Ohio Arts Council

The very hungry chicken

BY Devilin Smith

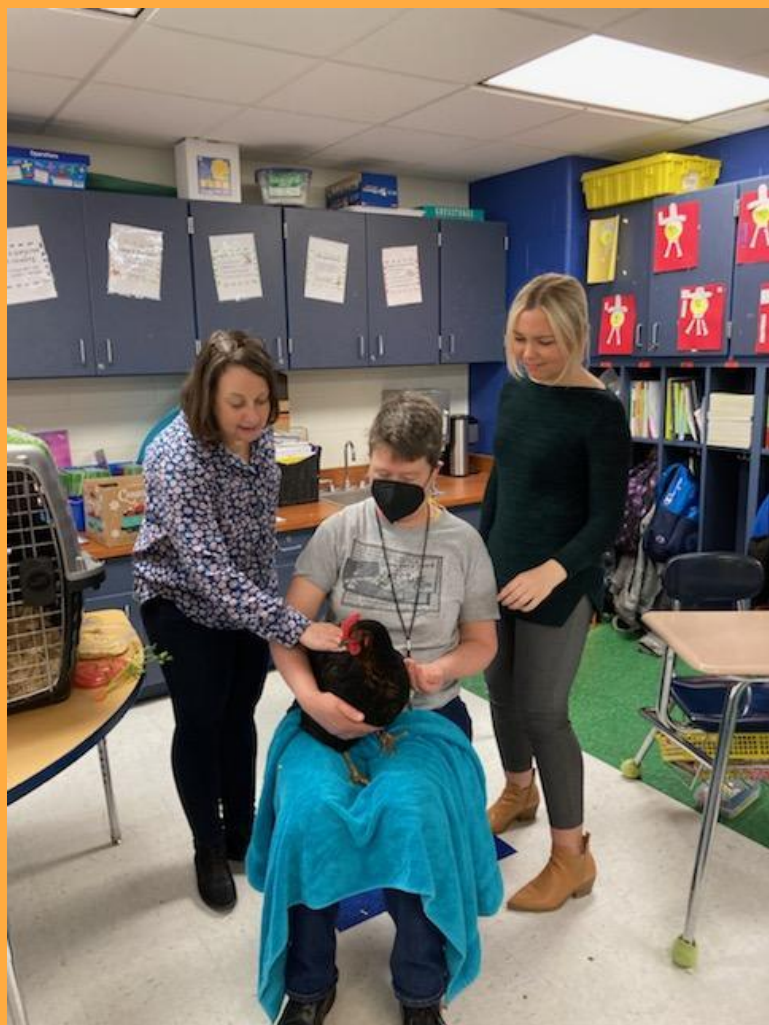

When Ms. Larsen heard that the fifth graders were studying food webs, she arranged to bring two of her chickens on a field trip to Mary Bethune School.

Glossy and June took turns sitting in Ms. Larsen's lap, while the students petted them and feed them mealworms, chicken scratch (corn and seeds), lettuce and kale, carrot and radish tops.

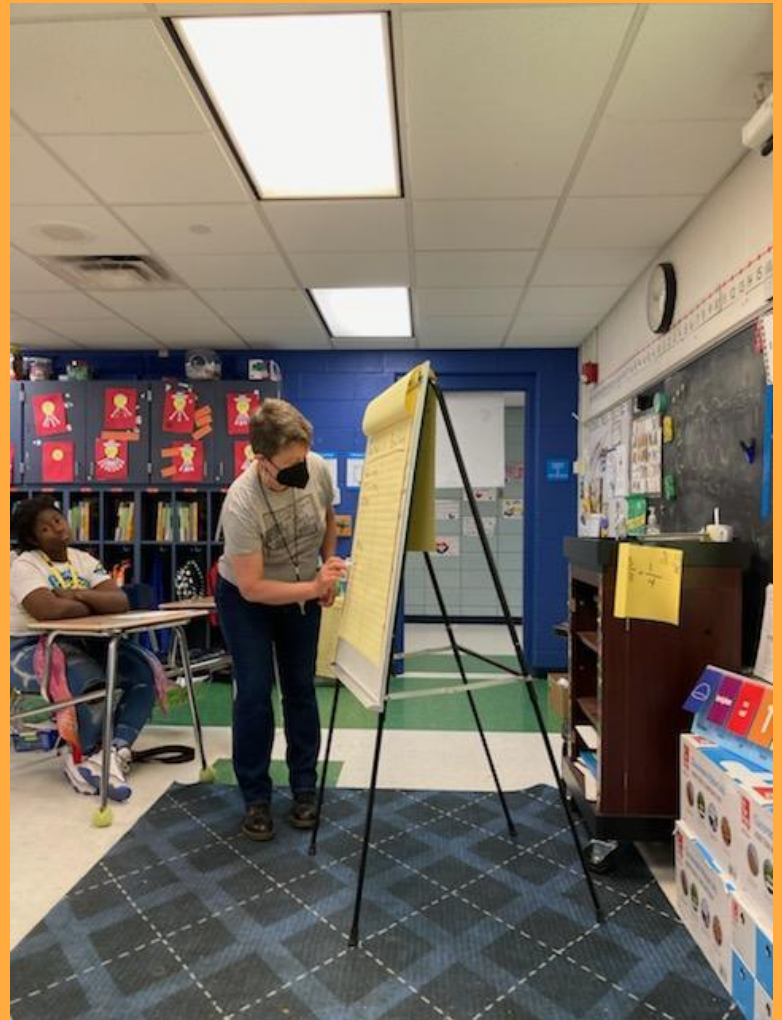

Then the students summarized what they learned about chickens and created a list of foods and a food web.

After that, they began creating informational and entertaining 'zines (tiny magazines made out of one sheet of folded paper)

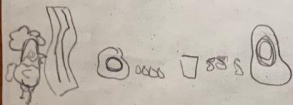

4

the next day she put out the One found peas, but how of cured, and how of meat worms.

And on the last day she was almost ready to lay an egg she pecked the seeds, and meal worms, and back.

5

Some wisdom as she pecked through the watermelon of very good! But she was quite hungry.

On the first day she laid egg!

6

3

He was looking for dug out good like worms, and side like from the worm...

Once there was a very hungry chicken named Lor.

The Very Hungry
Chicken

© Autumn Rose Smith

DT found bread seeds
at the hill
with 24 pro
was full.

Then he looked for some bread seeds.

DT still was looking for food he found
some bread seeds.

DT was still hungry so he found some bread seeds and ate them.

The Very hungry chicken
BY nizeer

Once there was a very hungry chicken named
DT.

DT looked for something to eat he found a noodle.

She drank a lot of water and pees but was very happy!

She finds a land
of food and she got
fat. And she pooped
and she wasn't hungry
but she was thirsty

she is sick

she finds a little something to eat
BUT... she was still hungry.

One day... a chicken name June was very bored and also very hungry...

She also met a boy named bryson (AKA NLE Choppa)

AND THEY EATS
ALL THE FOOD
TOGETHER!

By: Lailah
Coachman

Hungry chicken

By Lailah

1 ONCE there was a very hungry chicken
name June.

2 June looked for something to eat
she ate some chocolate.

3 Then June walked around looking for more food she ate a raw potato.

4 After that June was still hungry so she ate some eggs.

5 Next June saw a rooster and they fell in love. His ~~ma~~ name was max

6 Finally June had a egg a littel baby chicken. The end
the fater is name max

I'm so hungry
I could starve

Once there was a very hungry chicken

I'm still hungry

On the first day Lala ate 1 grape. She was still hungry

On the second day Lala 3 ate 2 apples. still hungry.

On the third day Lala ate 3 pumpkin pies, still hungry.

ON the 5th day Lala
5 was full after 4 melons.

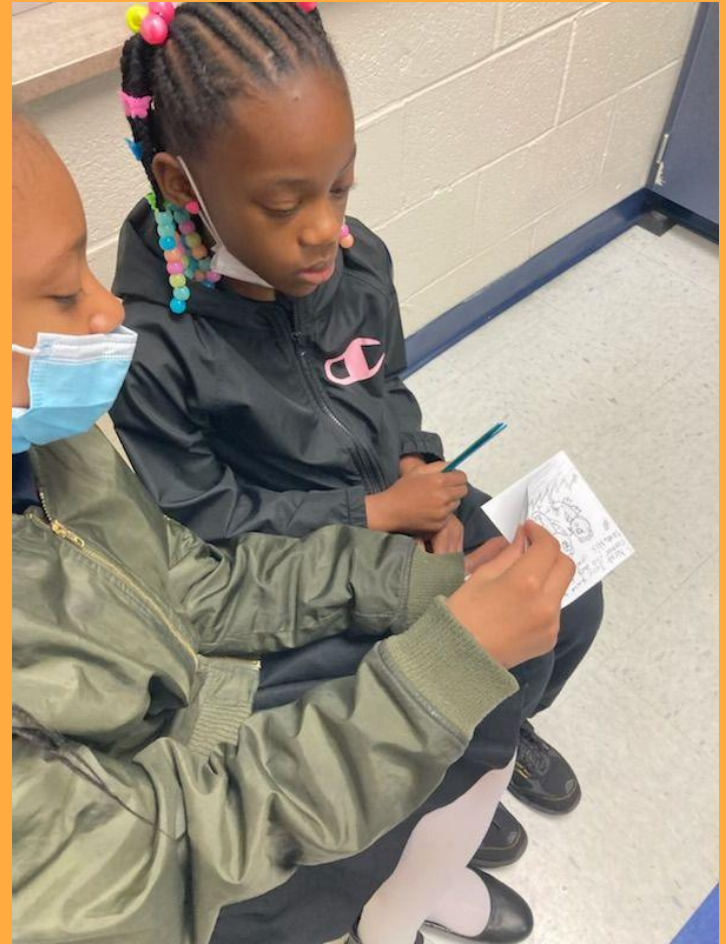

ON the 6th day Lala
laid an egg!

All was well, only a little messy, and June and Glossy went home. The students worked hard on their stories, and then they practiced reading them outloud because their teacher wanted them to read their books to the first grade and teach them all about chickens and the food web and how cool it is to write your own book!

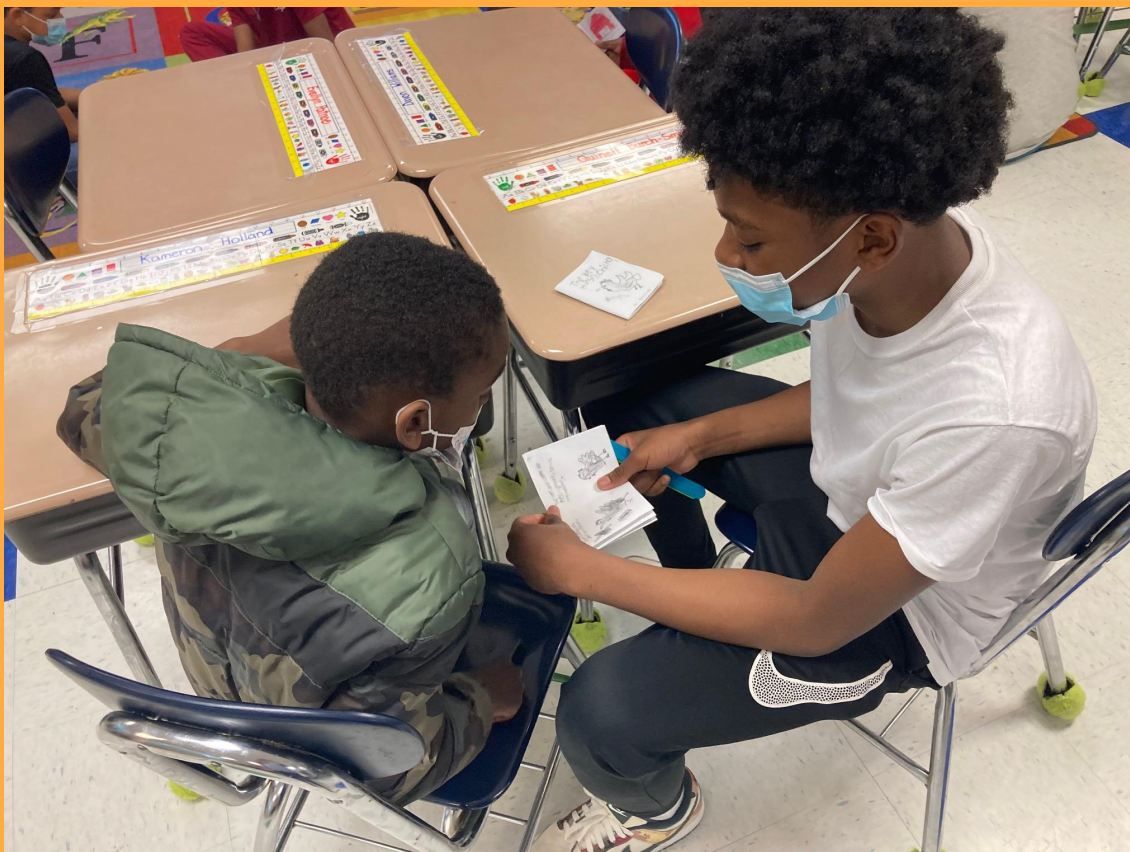

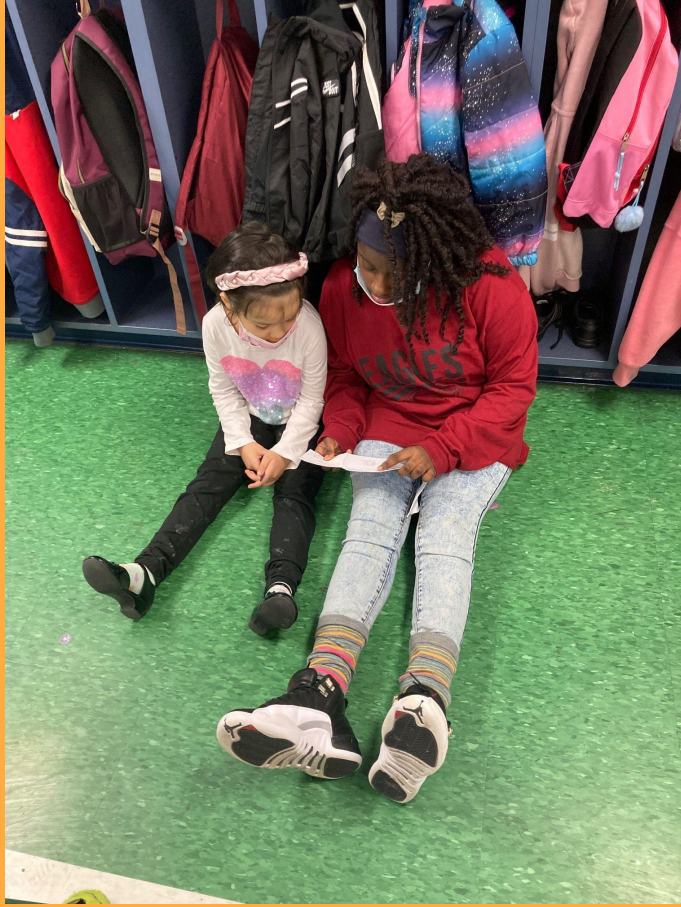

Thank you, Ms.
Nakonachny, for allowing the chickens to come to school, and thanks to Ms. Arunski for being such a great collaborator!

